Easy End-User Data Entry Challenge:

Ensuring that end-users can easily input data without encountering difficulties or errors in the system.

Quick Reporting Challenges:

- Producing real-time or near-real-time reports for decision-makers and stakeholders in a timely manner.
- Budgeting by function in current system from the beginning, giving user access to do in system, instead of manual imports.
- Live Scenario Planning needed for key assumptions, i.e if we want to do a 1% pay adjustment instead of 2 it takes a whole refresh to do it.

- Current system is not used for budget planning. We use ADP and excels then upload data entry to current system. We would like the ERP system to have a full budget planning module so end users can create their budgets in software and for there to be a review approval process.
- Most budgets are provided through excel outside of the current system. Tracking budget by proforma categories is difficult since the proforma/master budget categories are not entered in the current system. Historical information by enterprise budget is compiled outside of the current system. Lack of systems generated approval process at multiple levels.
- Overlap of future positions and pending vacancies; salaries & fringe estimates until start of year.
- Position historical, tracking pending hires/fills, Reporting actual filled salaries and vacant positions cost in one report.

Question 95: We understand the RFP requests both a fixed fee and a breakdown of hours and rates. As a standard practice, our fixed-fee proposals are based on defined scope and deliverables, rather than hourly rates or time estimates. This allows us to stay focused on outcomes and ensures pricing predictability for our clients. Should we update the pricing workbook to allow for a manual entry of the one-time cost instead of using the formula-driven format?

Answer: The tab for implementation services heading may say one-time cost, but if you put the expected hours and rate then we will know that this is time and effort. We would expect implementation hours to a bucket of hours with the expected cost per hour.

Question 96: For travel and expenses, we typically include an estimated percentage of the total project cost to support planning. The specific number and timing of on-site visits are finalized post-contract, once we've aligned on project needs and cadence. Please let us know if this approach suffices for your planning and evaluation needs.

Answer: The form asks for specific trips, but you can do bucket and put the amount as you see fit.

Question 97: We request clarification on the dates surrounding potential dates following the invitation to request to demonstrate. May 27th is listed as the Software & Implementation Presentation date. We assume that our team would need to be available for on-site meetings in Weslaco between Tuesday, May 27 and Friday, May 30th for demonstration and follow-up Discovery sessions. Would these dates potentially stretch into the week of June 2nd?

Answer: The dates will not extend past May 29th for demonstrations and May 30 for discovery if needed.

Question 98: Do the "finalist" vendors have the ability to request more time to demonstrate and discuss their solutions and implementation proposals? Our team collectively shares the concern that several hours/half day is not nearly enough time to demonstrate a solution encompassing the requested solutions. If selected to demonstrate in late May we ask for more time (1-2 days) to enable your team of stakeholders the appropriate time to validate the proposed solutions.

Answer: Unfortunately, there will not be any additional time. The time limit will be set based on the number of finalists.
